

Skyscape Archaeology: a new direction

Thursday 16th November at 8 pm by Zoom
By Dr Liz Henty, University of Wales Trinity St David

This talk will give a brief history of archaeoastronomy including its earlier guises, explaining how skyscape archaeology is a much more comprehensive methodology when it comes to researching past cultures.

Archeoastronomy and archaeology are both distinct fields of study used for examining the cultural aspects of societies - but they work from different perspectives. The new Skyscape Archaeoastronomy examines the impact of the skyscape, and although archaeology covers all aspects of culture, it rarely considers the sky.

www.marlowarch.co.uk

Free to Marlow Archaeology Group (MAG) members
£3.00 for non-members

Book on www.marlowarch.co.uk/booking or via QR code
ENQUIRIES info@marlowarch.co.uk

Burgers Artisan Bakery sponsor MAG