

Brochs and their Builders

By Kenneth McElroy, Caithness Broch Project

8.00 PM Thursday 19 September, On-line via ZOOM

Brochs - the enigmatic stone towers of Scotland often pose more questions than answers - Who built them? Why were they built? Is it possible to build one today? In this talk you will hear about the broch phenomenon, their place in Scottish archaeology and how a band of volunteers in the north of Scotland is seeking to reconstruct one of these towering monuments as an immersive 'living history' attraction.
